The Course participants and others along with Governor Harrison and Attorney General Wilhelm Bourne

Anguilla's Attorney General, the Hon. Wilhem Bourne, said it was a historic occasion as it was the first course conducted by the Centre which was set up to revise the laws of the three territories. So far the laws have been revised for Anguilla and Montserrat and the Turks and Caicos Islands is coming up in the near future. He commended Ms. Yolande Dash for conducting the Law Consolidation Course and also thanked Mrs. Nadarajah who is delivering another level of training in his Chambers for Crown Counsel.

Governor Alistair Harrison congratulated the course participants. He said that when the laws were consolidated it would be much easier for members of the public, who did not have the legal expertise, to trove through various different laws which had been enacted over a long period of time. He concluded that for this reason the course was extremely important. He joined the Attorney General in saying it was a historic occasion and added that it gave him great pleasure to present the certificates to those who completed the training.
