

The Regional Law Revision Centre Inc. has received an 'A' rating from the Department for International Development (DFID), UK.

7th May 2014, The Valley, Anguilla. The Regional Law Revision Centre Inc. (The Centre) aided by the Department for International Development (DFID), UK, embarked on a strategic business plan to provide essential law revision services to Anguilla, Montserrat and the Turks & Caicos Islands. This 2011-2016 strategic business plan also included extending the cost-effective services of the Centre to other Caribbean States and Territories.

Since the inception of this joint venture DFID has maintained monthly reviews of the Centre's operations to monitor its targets and performance. At a general evaluation session conducted by DFID in March 2014, the Centre received an 'A' rating based on the business plan to deliver continuous, cost-effective and high quality outputs.

The Centre's Resident Director, Hon. James Wood QC commented; "We are extremely pleased with this rating received from DFID".

Hon. Wood further added; "the Centre is dedicated to providing quality services at cost effective prices, so that even small jurisdictions with limited financial resources are able to maintain updated laws at affordable prices."
